PERFECT HOT SPOT FOR SCROOGES WHO HATE CHRISTMAS!

HAVE A LOUSY, LOUSY CHRISTMAS! Innkeeper John Gallery offers guests a miserable holiday at the Swallow Chase Hotel.

By JOE BERGER / Staff writer

Obliging innkeeper John Gallery is offering real-life Scrooges a chance to spend the holidays at his hotel — and have an absolutely miserable Christmas!

'BAH, HUMBUG HOTEL!'

For a measly $70, skinflints and sourpusses can spend four bah, humbug days at the Swallow Chase Hotel in York, England — in a room with no lights, no heat and boarded up windows.

Grumpy guests who sign up for the Scrooge special will be served a Christmas dinner of cold turkey and water, and they'll get to eat it all alone in their rooms.

They'll also get a thimbleful of booze to warm their old, cold hearts on Christmas morning.

"This is an ideal package for people who hate — really hate — all the festivities and hoopla that go with Christmas," said jolly John, manager at the Swallow Chase.

"It'll cost you next to nothing but we'll spare no expense ourselves to make sure your Christmas is as wretched as you want it to be."

Soreheads will be allowed to snap and snarl at bellboys, desk clerks and other hapless staff members for the entire four days.

And eager-to-please employees will snarl right back.

"After a night or two in those cold, dark rooms, all our Scrooges are going to feel like growling at somebody," promised the happy-go-lucky hotel boss, who predicts a chilly Christmas.

"It can get real icy around here about that time of the year," he said.

While tightwads are bellysaching their way through the holidays, the rest of the guests will be eating, drinking and making a merry Christmas every night around a glowing fire in the hotel lobby.

"Those of us who want to will be having a ball," John said.

And if the Scrooges cry uncle and decide to join in the fun, they'll be welcomed with open arms — the minute they cough up an extra $150.

UFO KIDNAPS ENTIRE TOWN

By DAVID COLEMAN / Correspondent

Space alien kidnappers are believed responsible for the disappearance of a town's entire population of 1,254 — and they even snatched corpses from the local graveyard!

1,254 people vanish without a trace!

A deathly silence hung over the once-bustling Eskimo settlement at remote Lake Anjikuni in northern Canada when it was visited by bewildered trapper.

Half-cooked meals hung in pots over dead fires . . . the cemetery was violated and all the bodies removed . . . every dog in the settlement was still tethered to trees, all dead of cold or exhaustion!

The spine-chilling story — one of the baffling unsolved mysteries of all time — is retold in the book The World's Greatest UFO Mysteries by Nigel Blundell and Roger Bear.

First to come across the Anjikuni mystery was trapper Joseph Labelle who arrived at the lakeside colony in the dead of winter of 1930:

"As soon as I entered the little town I was filled with dread and apprehension. Nothing seemed right."

Labelle began shuddering with uncontrollable chills — and it wasn't just because of the sub-zero temperature. "I hurried from igloo to igloo, pounding on every door, looking for one small sign of life. But there was nothing," said Labelle, still shaken from the memory. "I knew there was something far wrong. From the half-cooked meals, I knew they had been disturbed during dinner preparation. In each cabin I found a rifle propped beside a doorpost — and no Eskimo hunter goes anywhere without his rifle!"

With horror Labelle went on to discover long-dead dog teams, still tethered to trees. Nearby the hard, frozen ground in the cemetery had been turned over and bodies obviously removed.

"I knew then that something very awful had occurred," added the shocked trapper. "These people would never leave their dogs to die . . . or allow anyone to desecrate the resting place of their loved ones and ancestors."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigators, telegraphed by Labelle, descended on the settlement within hours of the trapper's chilling discovery. They were baffled. A Canada-wide search was eventually launched.

But, more than half a century later, the Anjikuni mystery remains ished off the face of the Earth. The only clue which bears validity is the testimony of another trapper, Armand Laurent, who lived with his sons in an isolated lakeside cabin. The Laurents told Mounties they saw a strange brightly lit object race across the sky a few days before the investigation began.

In what direction?

"Toward the Eskimo village," Laurent told police. "Straight for it!"

Pilot takes potty break — & wrecks $18 million jet!

A fighter pilot cost American taxpayers $18 million when his plane went out of control and crashed — while he tried to relieve himself in a "piddle pack."

Lt. Col. Don Snelgrove safely ejected from the F-16C fighter jet as it plunged to earth in Turkey.

Snelgrove lost control trying to urinate into the piddle pack, a dehydrated sponge in a plastic container.

He set the plane on automatic pilot and unfastened his lap belt. But the buckle got wedged between the ejection seat and the side-stick controller, which is used to turn the aircraft.

Snelgrove adjusted the seat upward, sending the side-stick controller to the right and the plane went

VAMPIRE CAT KILLS 16 PEOPLE!

Mutilated bodies found drained of their blood!

PLOVDIV, Bulgaria — Sixteen unsuspecting citizens have been ripped to shreds and their bodies drained of blood during a hair-raising, eight-month reign of terror — by a vampire cat!

Time after time, the killer kitty has pounced from the shadows of a darkened city street to fell its victim with one slash of its razor-sharp fangs.

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

"The thing looks like an ordinary housecat, except for those awful fangs and a strange red glow in its eyes," said police investigator Igor Telkov.

"It weighs no more than 15 pounds, but it moves very quickly and is as deadly as any lion. It has proven that many times over.

"We've warned all of our citizens that until this thing is captured or killed, they should stay inside after dark — and keep their doors and windows locked."

The blood-crazed beast began its odyssey of death and destruction when it attacked hapless janitor Sottiz Karpulsky as he left a downtown bar around 4:30 a.m. on April 25.

"Poor Sottiz had finished cleaning up in the lounge and I was waiting for him in the car to give him a ride home," recalled his weeping widow Katerina, 42.

"He was standing outside the door locking up when suddenly that awful cat leaped from a window ledge up above — and even as it came down, I could see its huge white fangs flashing in the neon lights.

"The thing landed on my husband's shoulders and went straight for the throat, slashing him open before he had a chance to defend himself. I grabbed my umbrella and ran to help, hoping I could beat it over the head and save Sottiz.

"But when I got close I could see that Sottiz was beyond help — and I could acta-

Since that fateful night, the murderous mouser has attacked on an average of about of mutilated corpses from one end of the city to the other.

Tune up your love life!

Treat your marriage like a car!

Your marriage is like your car — you've got to keep it tuned if you expect it to run smoothly. But you can keep things purring along by following a few simple tips from an expert.

"A marriage, no matter how young or old, needs periodic maintenance," said marriage and family counselor Dr. Kim Johnson. "And by following the same procedures you follow for your car, you may be able to keep your marriage warranty from expiring."

Dr. Johnson offered these tips for keeping your marriage running like a Rolls-Royce:

● Periodic tune-ups — After so many miles, a marriage, like a car, must be examined for wear and tear. If signs of either are present, a vacation away from home may be the answer. Go someplace where you can be alone and enjoy each other.

● Overheating engine — Your marriage, like your car's radiator, will boil over if it's overworked. Poor communication overworks a marriage, so know when to talk things out to keep your marriage from overheating.

● Lubrication — Doing nice things for each other lubricates a marriage just as grease lubricates a car. Little gifts help to keep your marriage free of friction.

● Care of transmission — When a car is overloaded, you shift to a lower gear. When problems cause your marriage to be overburdened, shift it to a more comfortable gear.

● Brakes — Your marriage, like your car, will occasionally head toward danger. When you think there's trouble ahead — slam on the brakes. Avoid the problems before you get to them by knowing when to slow everything down.

● Spark plug care — A car with dirty plugs loses pep. If your marriage loses its spark, it'll also get sluggish. Don't be afraid to try something exciting to put a spark into your love life.

● Battery charging — Your marriage, like your car's battery, can be drained if it's not recharged. Expressing your love for each other goes a long way toward recharging your marriage battery.

● Washing and waxing — A glowing marriage, like a shiny car, brings satisfaction to its owner. Let others know you're happily married — let your love shine.

Drive-IN banking!

A bumbling oldster gave new meaning to the term drive-in banking when she crashed her car through the wall of a bank in Charleston, W. Va. The 75-year-old motorist told police she was using the bank's drive-through when her car just took off on its own, smashing through the wall and coming to rest against a dumpster in the loading bay. Although shaken, the lady refused hospitalization.

Teacher who chopped up his wife demands $200G in back pay

MICHIGAN man Morris Abrahams expects to be well taken care of by the city of Ann Arbor.

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

Schoolteacher Morris Abrahams killed his wife with an ax and is in jail for murder, but he's still entitled to $200,000 in back pay — and could have his job back if he gets out on parole next year!

...and his old job back when he gets out of jail!

The Ann Arbor, Mich., high school gym teacher was fired in 1980 after several female students complained to the school board that he had made sexual advances to them.

He appealed the decision of the Ann Arbor Board of Education and after 13 years the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled the sexual abuse charges against him had not been proven and that he'd been unjustly fired.

"Meanwhile, in 1984 he was charged with murdering his wife," said Linda Bruin, attorney for the Michigan Association of School Boards.

"He killed her with an ax in the front yard of their home. He did it in front of his 10-year-old son.

"His lawyers argued that it was the school district's fault.

"They said the improper discharge from his job led him to go off the deep end and commit the murder.

"He's up for parole next year. He's been told he's entitled to his job back, so he can go to the school and demand it — and they have to give it to him!"

Luckily for taxpayers, Abrahams' back pay only covers the years from his firing until his 1984 arrest. But the convicted ax murderer's $200,000 award — and the fact that he can go back to teaching — is stirring up plenty of controversy in his home state.

"Things are horribly awry in this state," fumed Miss Bruin.

"Michigan has a provision that allows the Board of Education to revoke a teacher's certification if he or she abuses children or commits any felony involving misconduct with children.

"But, incredibly, murder is not on the list! And although the state legislature has twice been asked to add murder to the crimes that would lead to revoking a teacher's certification, it has refused to do so. You can kill someone, go to jail for it, and go right back to teaching our children when you get out."

Mugger robs businessman — & gets away with dog poop!

A dumbo mugger robbed businessman Daniel Ellebert on a downtown street — and got away with a bag full of dog poop!

The department store boss was walking his boxer Fleur one morning in Paris, France, when a scruffy looking guy in sneakers walked up, pointed a pistol in his face and demanded the bag Daniel was carrying.

The bumbling bandit then grabbed the bag and took off — not realizing that it was the bag Daniel had just scooped from the street after Fleur did her business.

"That idiot must have been pretty proud of himself till he realized what it was he'd just stolen," said an amused cop.

HOWARD BROUGHT TO LIFE!

BILLIONAIRE: Howard Hughes

By TONY CASSIDY / Special correspondent

Billionaire playboy Howard Hughes used his incredible wealth to buy immortality before he died in 1976 — and now scientists have brought the aged tycoon back to life!

Hughes set aside $400 million to have his body flash-frozen the moment his heart stopped beating so that it could be preserved and then revived when medical science progressed.

Only weeks ago he was thawed and put on life-support machinery while surgeons used the latest procedures to replace the diseased kidneys that led to his death. Then, amazingly, the medical pioneers restarted his heart and slowly revived the 70-year-old man — and he is now in good health!

"Mr. Hughes was always a great believer in the brilliance and creativity of American science and he had no doubt — even at the very end — that he would some day live again," said Bahamian Asa Van Dorn, a longtime Hughes friend and adviser. "As you know, Mr. Hughes died of kidney failure while flying from his retreat in Acapulco, Mexico, to his headquarters in Houston.

"The news media were alerted so there would be witnesses that his body was taken from the plane after it landed. But in fact, Mr. Hughes wasn't removed from the plane. The 'covered corpse' newsmen saw was an aide.

"Mr. Hughes was still aboard the plane when it

AMAZING INSECT MEASURES A WHOPPING 13 INCHES LONG!

No, it's not a pile of twigs on a ruler — it's a living, breathing insect commonly known as "the walking stick."

Its scientific name is almost as long as it is: Diapheromera femorata, from the family Phasmidae, and it and its relatives are found all over the world, including America. This particular fellow may not have a muscular physique, but it makes up for it in length. It could well be a world-record walking stick, because it measures an incredible 1 foot, 1 inch, not including its feelers. Most of its kind grow to about 3 inches, tops.

It's a scary bug, and one you wouldn't want to find in your kitchen. But the good news is the walking stick — no matter how big it gets — never snacks on anything but veggies.

BILLIONAIRE'S CORPSE WAS FLASH-FROZEN AFTER HE DIED IN 1976!

took off 30 minutes later for the flight to the secret cryonics center in the Bahamas.

"Everything was spelled out by Mr. Hughes months before his death. His plans were carried out and went just as he had planned. Because of his daring and foresight, Mr. Hughes has come back from the dead. It's truly amazing!"

Van Dorn says that only a few hours after the tycoon died, his body was already at a secret cryonics facility where scientists were preparing it to be flash-frozen at 183 degrees below zero. By the next day it had been frozen and placed in a specially constructed vault under 24-hour armed guard. There Hughes' body awaited the perfection of new surgical rejection of the new kidneys he needed to live again.

When the required advances became available early this year, plans went forward to revive the frozen billionaire. A team of highly skilled transplant surgeons was flown to the Bahamas. Hughes' body was thawed and new kidneys implanted. The 70-year-old former playboy is now resting at his secret Bahama facility, planning his new-found future.

"He wants to devote his second life to helping others," said Van Dorn, who remained in Hughes' employ throughout the years after his "death." "Mr. Hughes plans to finance and direct an all-out campaign to make freezing after death available to everyone. He hopes to be just the first of many people who use this means to wait for life-

Washington, D.C. — the lunatic capital of the world!

If you think the people running this country need to have their heads examined, you're right. Washington, D.C., has more psychiatrists per person than any other city in the world.

By ROSE GRADY
Correspondent

Incredibly, there is one psychiatrist for every 1,780 residents, says the American Psychiatric Association.

By comparison, in San Francisco, sometimes called the suicide capital of America, there is one for every 1,934 residents; in New York City, one for every 3,240 and in Chicago, one for every 9,010.

"Feelings of depression are quite common in the nation's capital," said psychiatrist Dr. Harold Kaufman.

Bureaucrats and politicians find themselves on shrink couches for a variety of reasons. Loneliness, an inability to cope with power, overwork and competition are chief among them, say experts. Despite the tremendous social whirl of Washington, loneliness stalks many.

"People come here from many places and when they get here, they're in a place where they don't have many ties or roots," said Dr. Kaufman, adding that for many the problems are worsened by "a huge, impersonal grinding bureaucracy. Here it feels as if the place is rather unhinged and there is nothing to belong to except the bureaucratic system — which has no particular concern for you."

Dr. Thomas G. Webster, a psychiatrist, said that many people during their first year in the nation's capital feel like "dislocated persons." And their sense of isolation "might lead to paranoid thinking or depression."

In the dog-eat-dog world of politics, those trying to hold on to their positions or move up the ladder can develop serious problems.

Often they work such long, hard hours that it can lead to "neglect of their personal life and relationships," said Dr. Webster.

Politicians under the watchful eye of the press sometimes cannot take the pressure, says psychoanalyst Dr. Zelda Tepitz.

"Things get terribly magnified here in Washington," she said. "Mistakes of judgment are picked up by reporters. The press doesn't cause the stress but it amplifies it."

Rather than try to hide their insecurities, many government officials feel at ease seeking psychiatric help.

"Organizations such as the State Department openly approve now and make referrals of their own to psychiatrists," said Dr. Paul G. Yessler.

SHRINKS GALORE! There are more psychiatrists per person in Washington, D.C., than any other city in the world.

"HOUSE PARTY" host Art Linkletter interviews little Ronnie Glahn.

From Art Linkletter's personal files

Kids write the darndest letters to Santa!

By DEBBIE STERLING
Correspondent

Kids write the darndest Christmas letters, says veteran entertainer Art Linkletter — and here are his personal favorites:

One little girl wrote Santa to say she wanted a baby brother for Christmas, but her mother had already told her there wasn't enough time. "So I said to my mommy," the little girl explained to Santa, "why don't they just do like they do down at Daddy's factory when they want something in a hurry? They just put more men on the job."

Linkletter says, "Another youngster wrote, 'Santa, I've been half bad and half good so I'd be happy if I got half of what I'm asking for.'"

A 7-year-old girl said she wanted Santa to bring a bottle of whatever type of hair tonic he uses, "because my daddy's head is beginning to come up through his hair."

Another girl said she didn't want anything for herself but she would be very happy if Santa could arrange a trip to the dentist for her older sister because, "she has loose morals."

A boy in the third grade asked for "a pair of eyeglasses with open eyeballs painted on them so I could sit in class and sleep but the teacher would think I was paying attention."

A small book lover requested a copy of his favorite sea story. He wrote, "It's about a sea captain who is mad at a whale for eating his leg. The book so he gets the name, Mopy Dick."

And a little girl told Linkletter she was asking Santa for a book that would explain if Robin Hood and Little Red Riding Hood were "relationed."

Then there was the girl who wrote Santa, "Two years ago, I asked for a baby sister and got that too. So if it's all right with Mommy and Daddy, I would like them to have a pony this Christmas."

One young fellow was very indignant because he hadn't gotten what he wanted last year. He wrote, "I asked for a pet and you brought me a stuffed

LaToya told to spill the beans on brother Michael

REVEALED: LaToya will tell all about the young company her brother Michael keeps.

GLOBE-TROTTING pop king Michael Jackson will face the music — if he ever comes home!

As if admitted drug addict and accused child molester Michael Jackson doesn't have enough trouble, his sister LaToya has been told to reveal all she knows about her famous brother's sex life.

LaToya will be asked about the warnings she says she gave her crotch-grabbing brother regarding his friendships with little boys.

"Michael didn't take her advice and now look what's happened," says Jack Gordon, LaToya's hubby.

"LaToya had lived under the same roof as Michael in the Jackson family home and had warned him many times about the risks he was taking.

"In the time she was living with him, he brought back 50 or more boys and many of them stayed over. She repeatedly warned him it didn't look good." Now LaToya has been served with a witness subpoena by lawyers for the 14-year-old boy who claims Jackson molested him. "This is a dramatic development," says a legal insider.

"More and more, it looks like LaToya knows something. She will be under oath, so she will swear to tell the truth.

Pretty Woman Julia Roberts gets pretty testy when asked about drug use. "I've never used drugs, period. Period, the end, end of story, ridiculous question," she says. But wait, there's more.

"I smoked a joint, okay. I am the girl who went through my entire high school career thinking a joint looked liked a finger without skin on it. I thought that's why they would call them joints. This is how much drug experience I've had in my life!"

Okay, okay.

Christopher Walken's Christmas gift to Elvis!

Weird-guy-for-hire Christopher Walken, now appearing in Wayne's World II, has a Christmas gift for The King — he's written a play about Elvis.

"I don't want to give the story away, but in the play, Elvis is back," says Walken.

"And he's been taking care of himself. He doesn't eat the way he used to, and he's older of course, but he's not really like you thought he was. That's why he's still alive in the minds of his fans."

Walken went on to ask: "You know why Elvis is dead? Elvis is dead because he was too nice. If he'd been a little tougher, if he'd said no to these boys, go out, he might still be alive. Fame can isolate you and keep you inside the house all the time, and this is not good."

Walken says he gets his info from the supermarkets.

"When I'm in the supermarket you've got your choice of like six tabloids when you're checking out. I always get all of them. And they usually average about three big stories about Elvis. So I accumulated a huge amount of these stories. I gathered the information, weird stuff, and I used it to write a play." You read all about him here first, Chris.

"Then Baywatch comes to his rescue. I would love to have Paul on the show and will see what I can do. I bought a Beatles T-shirt just the day before meeting Paul. I wouldn't have bothered if I'd known I was going to meet the real article."

"I've played those places, but that's not what most of my life is about.

"My life is about Wal-Mart and K mart — average stuff, like changing diapers."

HONKY TONK man — NOT: Garth Brooks

In fact, last year Garth came close to chucking his superstar career and staying home with wife Sandy and baby daughter Taylor Mayne Pearl.

"Now the child is on the road with us," says Brooks.

"But it's still up to the child. The second Sandy looks at me, or I see it myself, that it's hurting the child, we'll quit doing this."

Calvin Klein poster girl Kate Moss says her supermodel career was launched when she lost her virginity at the tender age of 14!

Kate, now 19, is convinced the "aura" from her first sexual experience is what caught the eye of a model agency boss in a New York airport.

The model mogul spotted that glow and turned Moss into a fashion phenom earning well over a million bucks a year.

Incredibly enough, Kate says all her pals had done the deed even earlier in life!

"I was the last one out of all my friends at school — honest!"

Cover girl Kate chose the romantic Bahamas for her first tryst for the most sensible of reasons.

"I didn't want to go to bed with some nasty bloke from my home town, did I?"

Kate hails from Croyden, England.

Psych Yourself Up!

Soap Stars Consult With Mediums and Tell All

On Dionne's TV show, Ricky Paull Goldin (Another World) and Yasmine Bleeth (One Life to Live) delighted in the thumbs up that the on-line psychic gave their sizzling romance.

The hottest show on TV today isn't hosted by Oprah, Phil or Geraldo, but rather by five time grammy award-winner Dionne Warwick. The subject? How "The Psychic Friends Network"™ has helped thousands to change their lives and gain the upper-hand in matters of love, romance, money, career and even personal growth.

Even some of today's hottest soap stars have called the line. Two favorites from Another World and One Life To Live (who are conducting a sizzling off-screen love affair) checked out their plan to move in together. The psychic not only blessed the relationship, but predicted the birth of two children: a boy and a girl. Stay tuned!

Another One Life To Live veteran expressed severe doubts about the ability of a psychic to tune into someone via the telephone. To persuade her, Dionne had her dial "The Psychic Friends Network"™ for a live reading on the air. "This is really incredible. You're saying things you don't know about," said the soap star, her eyes wide. Then she asked to continue the conversation in private.

One regular from Loving—also skeptical—was convinced when the psychic's predictions had all come true within a year.

WEIRD SCIENCE

A good psychic reading will usually astound newcomers to this arena. But those who are familiar with the field know that psychic power has been tested and authenticated by some very prestigious and scientific organizations, including some of the nation's top ten universities. Psychic investigation are even being conducted by our national military and intelligence agencies, which have actually used psychics to spy on enemy weaponry.

That's not all. Police departments in growing numbers are bringing in psychics to crack seemingly impossible cases. In addition, psychics are hired these days to locate the most appropriate spots for oil wells and mineral mines (including mining for gold). They've successfully hunted for treasure, and performed top secret work for the government. They've even diagnosed baffling medical conditions. And increasingly, they're finding success as personal counselors.

A PSYCHIC CONNECTION

Does it help? You judge.

–Broke and confused, a contractor calls for psychic assistance. Two weeks later, he's gotten a job. And by the end of the year, he's in business for himself, just as predicted.

–After calling, an aspiring actress gets the confidence she needs to pass her audition with flying colors.

–A Lansing, Michigan resident winds up with a more positive outlook in her life after one conversation.

–And a woman from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania feels as if the psychic has reached into her soul.

All of which explains why the calls—over a million and counting—keep pouring in. "It's not enough to have a friend who understands and is willing to listen," says a legal assistant from Florida. "I want answers."

And that's just what they get, from the nation's top mediums rather than from psychics—or pretend psychics—who just happen to man a phone bank.

The real difference with "The Psychic Friends Network"™, however, lies in the fact that you're not just matched up with a psychic at random. You can find the psychic who best suits your needs, and then cultivate a relationship. "It's so simple to develop a psychic friendship," says Linda Georgian, one of the premiere psychics in the world, and the authority behind "The Psychic Friends Network"™.

TRAGIC LAST PHOTO!

"THE wind came swiftly . . . and swept Kenji right off the ground like a leaf," says a stunned eyewitness.

Photographer's camera snaps his picture as 200 m.p.h. wind carries him to his death!

KYUSHU, Japan — A free-lance cameraman was photographed as he was snatched up by a freak gust of wind and carried more than a mile to his death — and the horrifying photo was made by his own camera!

By MICKEY McGUIRE

Special report

As a rogue wind, clocked at more than 200 m.p.h., roared across the island of Tora Jima, quick-thinking Kenji Ozawa triggered the remote control on a camera he had set up to photograph tryouts at a Japanese Olympic training camp.

The photo — said to be a certain Pulitzer Prize winner — was the last one the 24-year-old journalist would ever make!

Kenji was one of three people snatched from the ground by the typhoon-force wind and carried to their deaths more than a mile away.

"It is almost certain that he knew his camera was recording his own death," declared Hitoshi Hara, a Tokyo newspaper photographer who often traveled with Kenji to help him cut his expenses.

"Kenji was always trying for the unusual, offbeat photo and he used cameras that he could set up at various locations and then trigger by radio control. He was becoming famous for the pictures he made this way. Kenji had just set up his first camera near a place where the high jumps would be held. The camera was just inches above the ground for the low-angle shots he wanted. Then we heard the wind."

Hara said four athletes were setting up mattresses for the high jump when the freak wind swept across the training field. Kenji was standing only a few feet away.

"The wind came swiftly," Hara said. "I yelled at Kenji to get down on the ground. Instead, he grabbed a camera and started taking pictures. When the wind hit, it swept him right off the ground like a leaf. Two of the four athletes were tumbled across the ground for about 50 feet. Then they were lifted into the air and carried away.

"The other two athletes were blown into a ditch and that saved their lives."

Hara said the shattered bodies of Kenji and the two athletes were found crumpled in a rock quarry where the rogue wind had dumped them more than a mile from the training camp.

"I had gathered up Kenji's equipment to take to his family," Hara said. "That's when I noticed that the film in his remote camera had been exposed.

"I got very excited because I knew then that Kenji must have triggered the remote camera as he was being snatched off the ground. When I got back to Tokyo, I developed the film. What I saw made me cry.

"Kenji loved to take good photographs. Even when he knew his life was in great peril, he made sure his camera would get the picture. He

As we head into the 21st Century, it will be common to see humans demonstrate what we now believe to be supernatural powers such as extended sight (the ability to see lower into the spectrum into the infra-red, or higher into the ultra-violet range), or extended hearing (the ability to ascertain voices and sounds that one perceives from within, but little understood). Others will develop what has been termed "clairsentience," which is the ability to feel something at a distance without touching it due to an electro chemical change going on in the brain.

As these techniques become more common we will see an abrupt change in society. The human species will suddenly take a giant leap in it's ability to control all things created around it, in effect, a utopia will exist on earth. Pain and suffering will be eliminated. By utilizing the 90% of the mind which now lays dormant, mankind will be in total control of its environment.

GOOD NEWS!!! You don't have to wait. Researcher Bill Cox has traveled the world learning secrets that have long been known by only a mighty few. His investigations have taken him to South America where he has penetrated the deepest jungles and deciphered the technology of civilizations which vanished centuries ago. In Egypt he has explored the hidden chambers of the high priests whose knowledge of universal laws was supreme.

Bill's relentless search for the truth has drawn him to some definite conclusions; the most far reaching being that our world is literally criss crossed by other dimensions, invisible realms and unseen kingdoms, each one interacting upon all others. Though our eyes may not see them, there are trillions of life forces around us at all times vibrating to high frequencies which put them beyond our spectrum of visibility. Bill Cox says that once we have educated ourselves to understand these things that the cosmos takes on new meaning and we realize that all of creation is UNDER OUR COMMAND.

THE ELEMENTAL & ANGELIC KINGDOMS

When the earth was formed, God made man and woman in his image and gave them power over all domain. But in order to truly establish a rapport with his creations, it is necessary to realize that God also created a host of other kingdoms. Right now-ALL AROUND US-there are uncountable tiny creatures which exist in what is called the "ether". They are just waiting for the instant in which they are called upon to do the work they perform so well. They do not look upon their task as a chore.

MIND POWER TO CREATE AND TO HEAL

Using mind energy it is possible to move or alter an object at a distance. There is even a practical experiment that everyone can do regardless of training and you will find this fully explained on page 9.

One person who has adapted the principles in this book has been seen by the author to turn ordinary table butter into money. Likewise, there are those now living on our planet who can cure the ailments of others simply by saying a few words, and thinking in the prescribed manner.

The universe, says Bill Cox, can be broken down into several planes, among which there is an order of invisible realms. Turn to page 11, and immediately you will find out the jobs performed by such invisible beings as Devas, Undines, Sylphs and Salamanders, and how these forces can be put to producing whatever we need to make our life more comfortable on the physical plane. After all why should we go without when God did not intend it that way? In this book you will find out how to create an archetypal form and thus bring into physical manifestation anything you desire no matter how impossible your dream seemed before.

THE ANCIENTS KNEW ABOUT IT

A long way from being uneducated, many ancient cultures existed that were far superior to ours when it came to knowledge of the universe. Time travel, bi-location and energy accumulation were common feats to the masters of the past.

The ancients knew about healing the body and developing the mind. They were familiar with space travel, having established communication with advanced beings from the stars who assisted in their achievements. They knew how to read the suns, and how to project holographic structures in the sky. They were actualy able to create "thoughtographs," and upper most they knew how to live in harmony with everything in nature.

Now you too can experience an incredible leap forward in time. No longer do you have to struggle through life. With the knowledge gained from this exciting new book you can now lead the pack and see your wildest dreams become a reality. Don't hold back any longer, become a SUPERBEING and achieve your destiny without delay!

Treason's Greetings

. . . and a 'Jappy' New Year!

THIS CARD honoring the American heroes of Iwo Jima should have been printed in the U.S.

I'm madder than Rudolph at a reindeer roast over a Christmas card I just got from an old war buddy showing that great picture of Old Glory being raised over Iwo Jima during World War II.

MY AMERICA
By ED ANGER

I almost threw up my fruitcake when I read the small print in the bottom corner — PRINTED IN JAPAN.

Folks, when the Japanese are selling Americans Christmas cards with heroic scenes from a war we fought against THEM, it's the last straw!

Next thing you know, Santa Claus will say "Ah So" instead of "Ho, Ho, Ho."

Instead of leaving the Jolly Old Elf milk and cookies on Christmas Eve our kids will leave him sake and rice, for crying out loud.

It wouldn't surprise me one bit to see him trade in his sleigh and reindeer for a new Toyota — and kick in Rudolph to sweeten the deal.

Let's face it. You can't even Christmas shop without buying something that was MADE IN JAPAN.

But what makes me so self-biting mad is that nobody seems to give a hoot that we don't make ANYTHING in this country anymore.

And those idiot politicians in Washington sit on their fat behinds scratching their pointy heads while more and more hardworking Americans are thrown out of work.

Where the hell do you expect them to be if the only jobs left are selling things made in Japan, for Pete's sake?

You only need so many folks peddling cars, TVs, computers, telephones, stereos, watches, toys, motorcycles, kitchen appliances and artificial Christmas trees.

Nowadays all this American stuff is made in Japan. I had promised myself I wouldn't buy one Christmas gift that was made in Japan this year.

But then nobody would get anything.

'Love conquers all' shocker!

CHIHUAHUA GETS 53-LB. ROTTWEILER PREGNANT!

GREAT BIG Rottweiler, like the one above, found an unlikely love match with a tiny dog.

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

Dog owner Kevin Foley won a $2,567.50 lawsuit because his burly, 53-pound Rottweiler got pregnant during a brief afternoon delight — with a love-struck, 4-pound Chihuahua.

The romantic interlude occurred when Rocky, the pint-size pooch, spotted Canella the Rottweiler in heat tied up on a neighbor's deck in Key West, Fla.

A passerby saw the two dogs passionately locked together and stopped to watch the bizarre affair because of the incredible difference in their sizes.

"You don't see a Chihuahua making love to a Rottweiler every day of the week," he joked.

Foley took a photo of the dogs while the passerby tried to separate them with spray from the hose. A month later Foley found out that his pedigreed Rottweiler was pregnant with 10 puppies.

Unfortunately, the world will likely lovers. Foley had the pregnancy terminated with a hysterectomy, leaving Canella forever sterile.

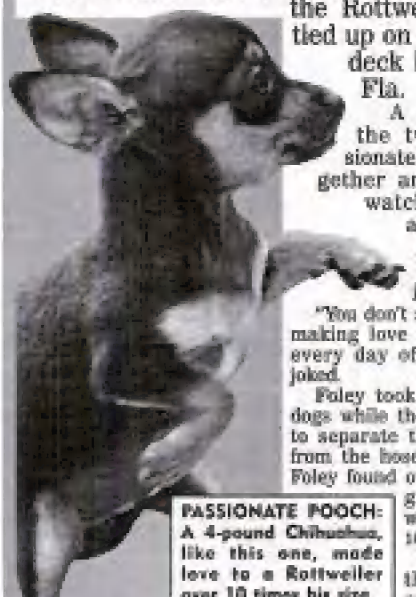
Foley sued Chihuahua owner Dayami Diaz claiming he had planned to breed Canella to an acceptable male so that a litter might be sold. But Rocky ruined those plans.

Diaz tried to defend his petite pet by casting aspersions on Canella's character. But Judge Reagan Ptomey didn't believe it.

"The defendant presented testimony of other dog-owning neighbors speculating that Canella had been visited by other male dogs, in particular, a determined but inadequate little Shih Tzu with an injured hip," the judge wrote.

"But only speculation existed, as opposed to the certain success enjoyed by Rocky."

Judge Ptomey ordered Diaz to pay Foley $2,567.50 in damages.



PASSIONATE POOCH: A 4-pound Chihuahua, like this one, made love to a Rottweiler over 10 times his size.

STUDY REVEALS: Exercise is healthy — but Americans don't care!

Most Americans know that exercise can make them healthier — and their response is a resounding, "So what?"

A new study by The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports found that the majority of Americans are "too lazy, too busy or too tired" to exercise even though they know it lowers blood pressure, cholesterol and the risk of heart disease.

Sixty-four percent of the 1,018 people polled in the survey said they didn't have time for a physical fitness program.

The common flea has an excellent memory, even better than that of the famed elephant!

That's the conclusion of Argentinean scientist Dr. Franco Gomez.

Forget Columbus — the Japanese discovered America!

AMERICA was not discovered by Columbus as the movie 1492 would lead you to believe, says world-famous historian Tomonori Furukawa. He claims it was discovered by a Japanese navigator named Yamashita.

By TONY CASSIDY / Correspondent

A beachcomber, looking for driftwood along California's Pacific coast, has found a small, perfectly preserved wooden chest which, scholars say, proves that the Japanese landed in America centuries before Columbus!

The chest, made of wood from the camphor tree native to Japan, contains rice paper charts and what appears to be a daily account of the seven-year voyage to the New World written by Japanese navigator Yamashita.

Carbon dating revealed the charts were made in the mid-12th century, and Yamashita's log details an epic voyage from Japan to the New World that began in 1168 — 332 years before Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain!

Dr. Tomonori Furukawa

The incredible discovery was made by a 29-year-old self-proclaimed "beach bum" who lives in Tillamook, Ore. Knowing the importance of his find, he has loaned it to a historian for detailed study. "This is probably the most valuable find that has ever been made on the North American continent," declared Dr. Tomonori Furukawa, a noted Japanese maritime history expert.

"The charts and the log book definitely belonged to Yamoshita. The only way those charts and the log book could have gotten to America was by his taking them there. Everything else he owned was lost forever in an earthquake and fire soon after he began his voyage."

According to his log, the ships laid over for repairs on what is now known as Oahu, before Yamoshita's two massive junks raised anchor and continued their eastward trek. In the late summer of 1167, after being battered and pounded continuously by severe storms, the California coast loomed on the horizon.

Weak from fatigue, hunger and thirst, Yamoshita knew his men had no hope of maneuvering the badly damaged junks through the pounding California surf. On his orders, the crews waited for a lull in the breakers, then drove the ships hard on the sandy shallows north of Eureka and swam ashore. Of the 230 men who sailed out of Tokyo Bay seven years earlier, only 112 lived to set foot on the New World.

What happened to Yamoshita and his remaining crew isn't known. What is known is that the great navigator and his heroic men were never seen again. The pounding of storms through the centuries long ago turned the two grounded junks into so much flotsam that was carried into oblivion by wind and tide.

All that remained to tell of their historic voyage was the little wooden chest and the written words of a man of the sea who carved his unheralded niche in history centuries before Columbus was even born!

"The history books must be rewritten to honor Yamoshita's accomplishment!" Dr. Furukawa said. "The log book and the charts are proof that he landed on American soil centuries before anyone else — including Columbus!"

SPERM BANK FOR YAKS!

There's a new sperm bank in China — for yaks!

The bank is being built in Damxung county in Tibet and is expected to help farmers avoid inbreeding among their yak herds. Yaks are important to farmers in the remote Himalayan region, where they are used in place of oxen.

"When construction is finished, the bank will be able to supply quality sperm to impregnate about 30,000 female

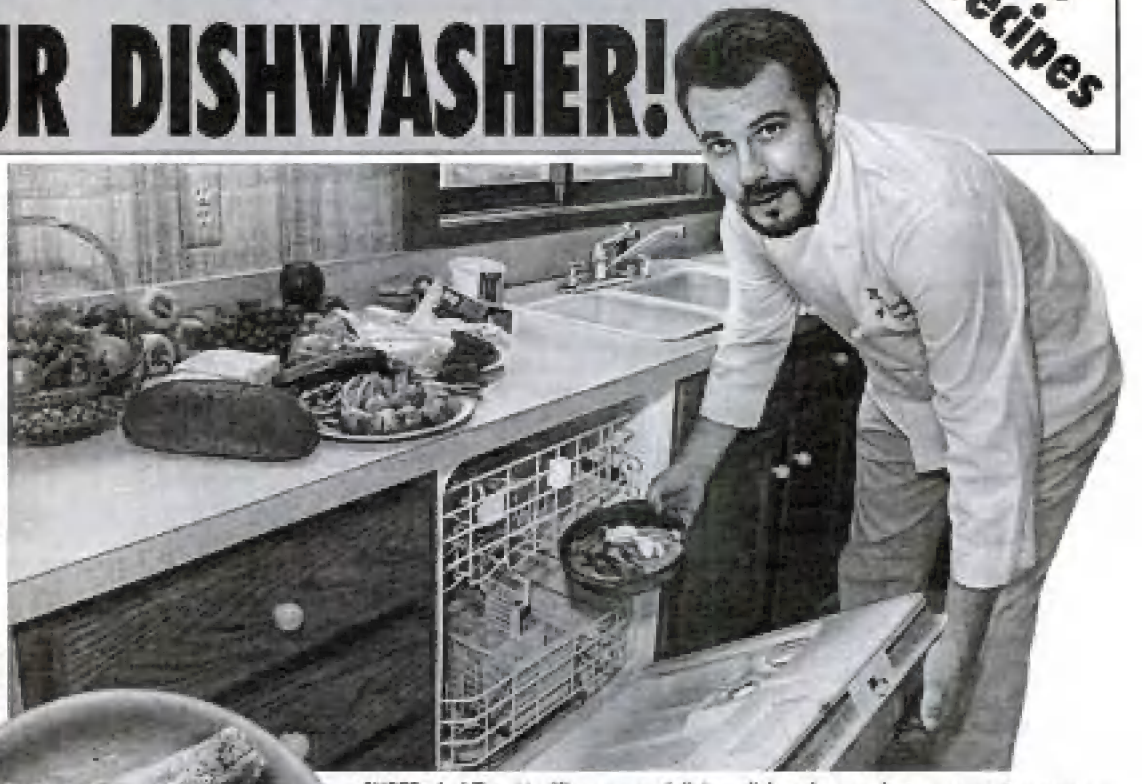
COOK CHRISTMAS DINNER IN YOUR DISHWASHER!

Chef's easy recipes



SUPER chef Tom MacKinnon says delicious dishwasher meals are a snap to prepare.

Top chef Tom MacKinnon cooks Christmas dinner and other meals in his dishwasher — and you can do it, too!

"If you really want to get into it, it works great," he says. "It's excellent for food that likes low, gentle cooking.

"The fish will be unbelievable. And I guarantee you won't have anything too dry."

Before you rush to your dishwasher, MacKinnon suggests these tips:

Get to know your dishwasher. Check out its running temperature by wrapping the glass end of a meat thermometer in a plastic bag and put it through a cycle. Check it a few times. A dishwasher that holds temperatures of 145 to 150 degrees Fahrenheit is excellent for cooking.

Put food in zip-lock plastic bags and make sure the seal is tight.

Fish, chicken, turkey and shrimp recipes work great.

Veggies should be sliced thin. But whatever you do — hold the soap! If you're worried about soapy residue, run a partial cycle first.

And if you seal the food well, the meal will come out swell!

Here are some of Chef MacKinnon's recipes created exclusively for Weekly World News readers:

Noel Fish In Your Dish

2 (8-oz.) pieces of boned fish
2 ounces butter or margarine
Fresh dill weed sprigs
1 tbsp. of capers
Freshly ground pepper

Bag the fish.

Place dill sprigs on top and add other ingredients.

Don't forget to seal the bag, unless you want flying fish. For fish up to ½-inch thick, use one full wash and dry cycle in a 145-degree dishwasher. For fish up to ¾-inch thick, use two full wash and dry cycles. This delightful meal serves two.

Santa's Dishwasher Veggies

½ sweet red pepper
½ green pepper
1 small zucchini
½ lb. mushrooms
¼ tsp. dried tarragon
Freshly ground pepper

Slice ingredients into ¼-inch strips. Bag veggies, add seasonings and run dishwasher one full wash and dry cycle.

Christmas Turkey

1 whole turkey breast
2 cups pumpernickel bread
½ cup cranberries
¼ cup dry vermouth

Divide turkey breast into two portions and lightly pound to flatten. Dice pumpernickel, add minced cranberries and mix with vermouth and your choice of seasonings. Spread mixture on turkey breasts, leaving one inch of meat at each side.

Roll breasts with stuffing inside. Now wrap breasts in plastic wrap six times, each time tighter and tighter. Twist the ends, tie with string. Poke holes in plastic wrap so pressure doesn't break the roll. Cook two full wash and dry cycles. You'll have plenty to serve four people.

Clothes don't make the man

Prancing around town in a frilly little dress doesn't make a man a bad father — and the Montana Supreme Court has said so.

A woman was granted sole custody of a 5-year-old child because her ex-hubby admitted wearing women's clothes in the past. But the court overturned a lower court's decision.

Childless gals have highest suicide rate!

Stressed out married moms may have more reasons to blow their brains out, but childless women are more apt to commit suicide.

A revealing new study of 389,000 women by Norwegian researchers found the suicide rate was higher among single and married women without children. Married mothers were by far the lowest risk.

The researchers said 1,190 of the women, age 25 to 74, committed suicide during the 15-year study.

Moms with six or more kids were about 80 percent less likely to commit suicide than childless women

My life's a living hell because hubby stinks to high heaven!

Confidential

Dear Twinky in Boise: Don't tell me how to style my hair and I won't call you an idiot!

Dear Farm Boy in Lincoln: Why don't you do the world a big favor and commit yourself today?

Dear Shocked in Salem: A lot of men tape mirrors to their shoes. Does that surprise you?

Dear Happy in Chicago: If it "hurts that good," why don't you go all the way and try it with a cactus?

Dear Peanuts in Astoria: Unfortunately, I don't know of any "enlargement procedure" that would apply in your case.

Dear Peggy in Atlanta: Nobody likes a foul-mouthed woman — not even a foul-mouthed man!

Dear Fed Up in Columbia: Of course you can save your marriage. But why would you want to?

Dear Mad in Baton Rouge: The last fool who mooned me felt the sting of my BB gun!

Dear Dotti: You've got to help me before I die of embarrassment. My problem is my husband. He wears cheap — and I do mean cheap — cologne. It stinks to high heaven and turns off everyone around him.

I've told him that the stuff smells awful. But he likes it and won't change brands. What in the world can I do, Dotti? It's humiliating to go anywhere with my husband. — Revolted in Camden

Dear Revolted: Let your husband wear his cheap cologne in peace. I get letters from women with husbands who refuse to BATHE. Those poor gals have real problems. You don't!

Skinflint mom won't fork over one red cent!

Dear Dotti: I'm so mad at my mother I could scream! I need money real bad but she won't give me a cent. I know she has several thousand dollars in the bank, but she says she needs it for her golden years. That makes me furious, Dotti. How can I get her to open her purse and fork over that cash? — Desperate in Denver

Dear Desperate: You listen to me, pinhead, and you listen to me good. That money belongs to your mother and she can spend it any way she pleases. How dare you question her financial decisions? You ought to be boiled in oil — after you're shot!

Our whole family feuds over the shows on TV!

Dear Dotti: My family of six has only one television and we're always fighting about which shows we're going to watch. There's got to be a better way, Dotti. Can you help? — Feuding in Milwaukee

Dear Feuding: Anybody who fights over a television set is brain dead. Why don't you forget the tube and curl up with a good book? Better yet, read Weekly World News!

Dotti, I want a big-bucks job just like yours!

Dear Dotti: Maybe you can help me. I'm majoring in journalism in college and happen to be an avid fan of your column. I want to be an advice columnist like you, but I don't know where to start. Do you have any advice for me? — Aspiring in Cambridge

Dear Aspiring: If you can't figure out how to get a job, how the hell are you going to give people advice? You snot-faced journalism students are all alike. You want big bucks, fame and power like I've got — but you don't have sense enough to go out and get it!

We saw a murder — but should we tell the cops?

A kid in my neighborhood was hit by a car and killed instantly the other night, and a bunch of my friends and I know what happened. Some other kids were throwing eggs at the kid and chased him in front of the car. My friends and I don't know what to do with this information. We'll do anything you say. — Undecided in Los Angeles

Dear Undecided: Don't be stupid! Call the cops and tell them everything you know, names included, today!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, P.O. Box 883547, Dallas, Texas 75380.

Why do ghosts wake me up every night?

Dear Serena: Every night around 1 a.m. I'm awakened by strange voices that last for a minute and then stop abruptly. I'm old and live alone, Serena, so this really scares me.

I'm even beginning to wonder if my house is haunted by ghosts. What's going on? If anybody can help me, you can. — Wondering in Dallas

Dear Wondering: The voices you hear are coming from an old clock-radio under your bed. It's still plugged in and is set to broadcast for exactly one minute every night at 1 a.m. The voices you hear are hosts and guests on radio talk shows — and you have absolutely nothing to fear.

DIETING CAN KEEP YOU AWAKE AT

Going on a diet can have a negative effect on your sleep, a new study shows. But you can beat that problem by following a few simple tips, says an expert.

"It's been shown that people suffer from sleep disturbances when they diet," declared Dr. Ismet Karacan. But he said weight watchers don't have to lose sleep.

Dr. Karacan, a noted authority on sleep disorders, and author of the book Sleep Disorders: Diagnosis and Treat- dieters get their full share of zzzs.

● Take a warm bath before going to bed. "This is a great way to release the tension of dieting. It will help relax you."

● If warm milk is allowed on your diet, drink it at bedtime. "Warm milk will enable you to sleep better because it contains the amino drowsiness," Dr. Karacan explained.

● Do all of your boring paperwork before going to bed. "Use this time to balance your checkbook or write letters."

● Take a long walk before you retire. "This will tire you out without getting your system excited the way strenuous exercise would."

● Read a good book in bed until making sure you are really tired before you fall asleep."

● Put a TV in the bedroom and fall asleep watching it. "Television is a good way of relaxing and slipping into a calm state that will get you through the night.

ADOLF HITLER!

3-year-old's mother was artificially inseminated with dead Fuhrer's frozen sperm!

By BEATRICE DEXTER/ Correspondent

Teresa Royer's little boy has a special claim to fame: His daddy is Adolf Hitler!

That's right, 3-year-old Adolf Hitler Royer got his start in life after his mom was artificially inseminated with a vial of the dead Fuhrer's frozen sperm. He was born Oct. 28, 1990 and he's a healthy, precocious tot.

"He is a handful already, but it's nothing to what he's going to be when he's an adult and a leader of the great German nation," said Teresa, a 29-year-old nursery worker from Dallas. "He has in him all the genes of the most magnificent man this world has ever seen.

"I'm going to see to it that little Adolf grows up knowing about his special bloodlines, his fabulous heritage. He will be my contribution to mankind. He will lead the great Aryan race to world supremacy, just as his father wanted to do."

Three years ago Teresa's pregnancy was covered in the Aug. 14, 1990 issue of Weekly World News, breaking the news that the blonde mom-to-be had been artificially inseminated with Hitler's sperm.

At the time Teresa admitted fanatical members of Hitler's Nazi party.

She said she was approached by an elite group of Nazis who fled Germany at the end of World War II taking with them a precious sample of their leader's frozen sperm. The group had selected her to be the mother of the Fuhrer's child, they told her, and she agreed to undergo the pregnancy.

Little Adolf Royer was born nine months later and she has been carefully preparing for his future role ever since.

"I am proud of what I've done," Teresa says. "The Fuhrer's genes and genius are in my son and they will enable him to excel just as his father did.

"My child will take his rightful place as leader of the Fourth Reich and the world."

Teresa says she has already heard from hundreds of people who are eager to help her son with money, contacts and even military support.

But because there have been an equal number who she fears might harm her baby, she keeps little Adolf carefully hidden.

"It's vital that I protect him until he is old enough to rule his people," she says. "That is my role as mother of the next great Aryan leader."

MOTHER OF THE FOURTH REICH: Teresa Royer gave birth to a son she named Adolf Hitler Royer on Oct. 28, 1990.

Sea lions being trained as lifeguards!

Experts say we could soon be saving the lives of hundreds of potential drowning victims at America's beaches — by using trained sea lions as lifeguards!

Trainers in Laguna Beach, Calif., hope to begin by teaching two of the slippery critters to carry lifesaving buoys or life jackets out to drowning folks and to search for valuables lost if they can save just one life," said a spokesman for the project.

"I can assure you, a sea lion going 30 miles an hour can beat a human lifeguard

Vet dumps dead dog in owner's carport!

An angry vet got even with a pet owner who refused to pay for his services when her dog died — by dumping the dead animal in her carport.

Disgruntled dog owner Laurie Schallenberger stopped payment on a $77 check to Dr. Andrew Newman when Buster, her 3½-year-old boxer, died in her Davie, Fla., mobile home a day after she took him to the vet for treatment for diarrhea.

Dr. Newman originally agreed to have Buster cremated for Mrs. Schallenberger, but later changed his mind and froze the dead dog for a month, hoping to resolve the check dispute.

But when that didn't work, the fed-up vet stuffed the mutt in a bag and drove to the Schallenberger mobile home.

"The vet said, 'Here, you want your dog back?' " said the astonished dog owner. "I said, 'You'd better leave or I'm going to call the cops.' "

That's when Dr. Newman dumped the dead dog in her carport and drove away.

"She robbed me of my services. She robbed me of my time," he remarked. "I went to her home to get the money or return the animal. I didn't have to dispose of her material. Let her call animal control.

"If she had a problem with the bill, we could have discussed it. I called her eight times."

Mrs. Schallenberger called police after the vet left Buster's partially frozen corpse in the carport, but they considered the case a civil matter.

"It's disgusting," she said. "The dog was thawing out. How could a responsible vet just toss him in my carport?"

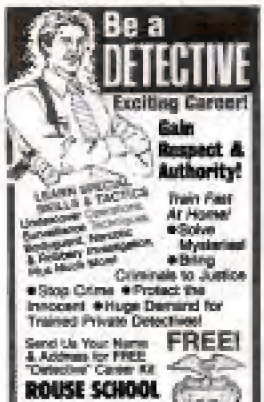
Carnival dentists popular in Spain!

Dentists in Spain have come up with a new idea to attract customers — they set up mobile offices at carnivals and do all the dental work right there on the midway.



Meteorologist Larry Darnetto has a big edge over his competion — by using a Ouija board.

Man predicts the weather — with a OUIJA BOARD!

By RANDY JEFFRIES / Correspondent

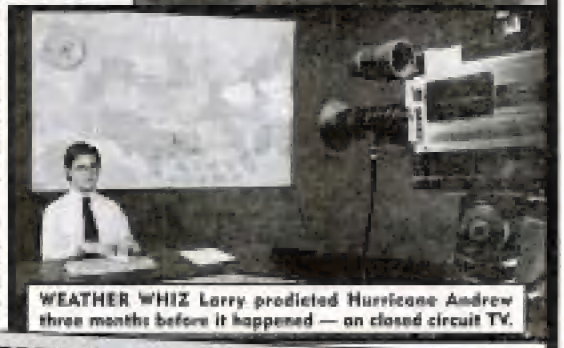
Meteorologist Larry Darnetto is the most accurate weather forecaster in the world because he uses something that gives him an edge over his competition — a Ouija board!

Darnetto is known as the "weather wizard" by the countless companies and private citizens he's helped with his predictions because he's had an incredible 97 percent accuracy rate over the last three years.

He gets his forecasts by sitting quietly at the board, placing his hands on the moving pointer, called the planchette, and asking "the spirits" what the weather will be like.

Darnetto says the spirits move the planchette over the printed letters on the board and spell out the answers. TV weathermen and other professionals accuse him of being unscientific, but their criticism doesn't faze him.

"Just look at the record," says Boston native Darnetto, 38. "Then you tell me who's unscientific. Barometers, Doppler radar and storm track-ing computers are helpful but they're just too unreliable by themselves. That's why people come to me. They know they can't depend on radio and TV to find out what it's going to be like out."



WEATHER WHIZ Larry predicted Hurricane Andrew three months before it happened — on closed circuit TV.

HE'S 97% ACCURATE!

Darnetto charges his clients anywhere from $100 to $20,000 for telling them on closed circuit TV whether it's going to rain, snow or shine during any given period and he can usually predict the temperature within two or three degrees.

His trusty Ouija board helps wealthy businessmen plan vacations and advises farmers, sailors and pilots about which days are best to plant, harvest or make cross-country trips.

"So far it's given me accurate information 97 percent of the time," says Darnetto.

Sometimes the mystic board gives him information he doesn't even ask for. Darnetto is famous for predicting Hurricane Andrew three months before it devastated southern Florida in 1992.

"I still remember that spine-chilling day in May," he says. "I sat down and asked it a simple question — 'Will it rain on Monday?' All of a sudden the planchette started moving away from the Yes-No area of the board out. It said, 'Hurricane coming. Homestead, Florida. August 24.' I must have called every agency in the state of Florida trying to get someone to listen to me but they hung up, calling me a crackpot. Now they all deny they ever heard from me."

Darnetto says he'd be glad to give up the Ouija board and use conventional methods just as soon as they show themselves to be more accurate. "Until then," he says,

Teen's note in a bottle takes 6 years to cross Atlantic!

Six years to the day after little Jamie Lehrer threw a bottle with a message inside it into the Atlantic Ocean, Lamqari Mbarek found it — in Morocco!

Jamie, now 13, of Plantation, Fla., got a letter from Mbarek, a physics student who picked the bottle up on a beach on Aug. 18, 1993.

He sent back her original note, which had survived six hurricane seasons and thousands of miles of ocean.

"We've had some returned from Rhode Island and Massachusetts," said Joel Telles, a camp counselor who helped Jamie send her note as part of a camp project.

Ghost of Lincoln's assassin haunts Ford's Theater!

FORD'S THEATER: Site of President Lincoln's assassination.

President Lincoln

DRAWING shows Booth shooting Lincoln.

By JAMES STONE
Correspondent

The ghost of assassin John Wilkes Booth still haunts the theater where he murdered President Abraham Lincoln 128 years ago!

SPOOK? John Wilkes Booth

That's the shocking belief of employees of historic Ford's Theater in Washington, D.C., who swear they hear echoing footsteps and see frightening shadows and other baffling phenomena.

The theater was closed after the assassination and wasn't used for stage plays until 1968 when the play You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown opened. Eerie things began happening during that show.

"One night the whole cast froze in their tracks during the performance," says general manager Edward Yoe. "They were momentarily confused. Later, they all said they suddenly felt 'someone else' on stage with them.

"Another time we tried to put up a piece of scenery which would have covered the Lincoln Box from which Booth leaped to the stage and escaped after shooting the President. But no matter how the technicians fastened that one piece, it kept flapping free and falling over. So we finally gave up.

"I think Booth's ghost is hanging around having a lot of fun."

Yoe and others who have spent time in the theater say they often hear the sound of footsteps echoing through the aging building.

"Once you hear those boots you never forget them," says Yoe. Sales director Jil Carlson agrees. "I was alone in my office once when I heard those footsteps come up the stairs," she says. "Then a shadow crossed the open office door and disappeared. But there was nothing to cause a shadow."

Theater electrician Rufus Linder has had similar experiences.

Every night he goes down to check the Lincoln Museum in the theater basement where Wilkes' boots are kept.

"Night after night I hear those awful footsteps," says Linder. "Once I heard them following me. And then I saw the shadow. I got so scared that I yelled out, 'Please wait till I get out of here, whoever you are.' The footsteps stopped, then turned and left."

Stories of a ghost in the theater date all the way back to 1865.

Island terrorized by real-life King Kong!

60-foot-tall gorilla eats 26 villagers

HOLLYWOOD'S conception of the giant ape: Witnesses say a King Kong-sized gorilla is terrorizing their Pacific island.

In a chilling, real-life version of the 1933 film classic King Kong, a monstrous 60-foot-tall gorilla is running amok and terrorizing villagers on a small Japanese atoll in the South Pacific!

By TONY CASSIDY
Special correspondent

According to a short-wave radio report from a team of Dutch anthropologists now on the uncharted island of Oshita Jima, the gigantic ape has so far killed and eaten at least 26 villagers.

"I and my colleagues have seen this incredible creature with our own eyes and we are convinced it is a throwback to the days when dinosaurs ruled the Earth," declared Dr. Johan Vandergist of the Netherlands Earth Institute.

Dr. Vandergist

"Americans who have seen the King Kong film will know exactly what this vicious beast is like. It is enormous and very ugly.

"Its teeth are the size of fence posts and it can bite a tree in half with a single chomp of its enormous jaws. And, with a single step, it can grind four native huts into a mound of splintered kindling.

"It is indeed an awesome killer."

Dr. Vandergist said about 200 surviving villagers have taken refuge in the atoll's mountain caves where decades before Japanese soldiers had holed up in preparation for a last-ditch defense of their homeland in the closing days of World War II.

"But hiding inside caves has only delayed the inevitable," he added. "Sooner or later, they have to leave the safety of their caves to get food and water. And the gargantuan ape is waiting for its next victim. It is never disappointed."

Dr. Vandergist said a plan is underway to evacuate the villagers to another island. Then his team will be joined by other experts in an ambitious and dangerous attempt to capture the beast alive.

"I know it sounds like we are following the script of King Kong — which, incidentally, I personally have never seen. But it is the obvious action to take.

"We can't turn our backs on so great an opportunity to study a living fossil from the age of the dinosaur. Besides, our scenario, I am told, is considerably different than the movie. Our King Kong isn't smitten by the beautiful Faye Wray."

Metal detector finds $2M fortune!

How you can stop being a pushover!

You can stop people from taking advantage of you by following five simple rules that will help you assert yourself, says a prominent psychiatrist.

"People who are easily taken advantage of even accumulate a burden of resentments and angry feelings that are harmful to their emotional and physical well-being," declared Dr. Samuel Silverman. But it's easy to quit being an easy mark. Dr. Silverman, a nationally known expert, offered these suggestions that will help you stand up for your rights:

● Determine why you're letting others take advantage of you. "You may be giving in to the demands of people because you're afraid you'll lose their love, friendship or admiration if you refuse to go along," noted Dr. Silverman.

"You should realize that people lose respect for those who allow themselves to be taken advantage of."

● Recognize that being taken advantage of is making you unhappy. "Chances are, you have spent many a sleepless night chastising yourself for having been taken advantage of — again."

● Start to take responsibility for what's happening in your life. If you overeat, don't blame the hostess who offered you the food. Don't complain that you didn't enjoy a movie, if you let others select it.

● Stop inviting others to make decisions for you. Express your thoughts and desires clearly.

● Be willing to take some risks to regain control of your life. "You must be willing to risk an occasional unpleasant reaction.

"A good way to begin is to take a stand with someone who is neither a family member or a close friend. You could confront a salesman who is trying to force unattractive merchandise on you.

"Then you might try doing the same thing with someone you really care about. If a neighbor asks you to babysit on the night you had planned to read a new novel, tell her you have other plans."

Stick up for yourself!

Signs indicate that someone may be trying to take the credit for your hard work. Don't let them get away with it!

Go to the top and set matters straight at once.

Your feisty outlook on life will serve you well this week both in romance and dealings with cash.

You'll come out on top — just like always!

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Take some risks! You can't lose!

Be tough when you have to, and don't hesitate to let a nosy neighbor know where their business stops and yours starts.

Attend an outdoor event this weekend and consider making a small wager on it. Lady Luck will be with you!

Your advice is sensitive and caring. Your friends rely on that quality in you.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

It's about time!

Everything's falling into place in your life. It looks like something really terrific is headed your way. Take the time to sit down and enjoy it.

Share any winnings that may come along with loved ones and friends.

A new and exciting relationship could be in the cards for you in the not-too-distant future.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Be bold!

You win the day in a sticky situation if you're brassy enough.

Quick action may be needed, and you will be the one to make that decision.

Your energy level is high. Make a list of all those annoying little things that need to be done — then do them! You'll feel great about what you've accomplished, and be relieved that they're off your back!

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Look before you leap!

Just relax if a romantic invitation comes in an unusual setting — and then enjoy yourself. Try to keep your head out of the clouds and your feet on the ground, though.

Be flexible when it comes to family matters. A loved one may try to pressure you into something wild and costly. Keep on an even keel for everyone's sake.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Whistle a happy tune!

Make that long delayed phone call to a loved one and reap the rewards. You're in for a great surprise!

If money matters start nagging you, use your head. Put a stop to the trouble. All that's needed is some firmness. Put the skids to any heavy spending for a while.

Your riches are many and varied. Count your blessings!

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan.19

Go after what you want!

Don't let a big price tag on an item put a damper on your spirits. Bargain for it and it will be yours at a price that won't break the bank.

There's a new love interest entering your life. It looks like romance will become your middle name. Lucky you!

Go all out to have a good time — you won't be sorry.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., Dec. 13 — Sun., Dec. 19

It's going to be a busy, busy year — and an upbeat one!

There won't be any time for the blues in the next 12 months. That's a given.

Your love life will be better than ever, especially since you'll be calling the shots.

Exciting ideas for increasing your financial security will come your way early in the year, so that by year's end you'll be feeling quite comfortable.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You deserve some space!

Set time aside for yourself this week and relax. Take in a movie. Call a friend. Do whatever sounds like fun to you.

Things are going to change. Money ought to be less tight very soon and all because of the way you've done your work. It's been noticed by those who count.

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Play hooky!

You may get some unplanned time off through a stroke of luck.

Even humdrum chores seem like play this week thanks to the happy atmosphere all around you.

You have the ability to find a solution to a romantic problem. Go for it and then relax with the one that makes you happy.

HEMINGWAY'S GHOST HAUNTS FLORIDA HOUSE!

Spirit of dead writer waves at passersby from upstairs window

The ghost of famous writer Ernest Hemingway is haunting an old house where he used to live — and is waving out of the window at passersby!

By TANYA BRODER
Correspondent

Witnesses in Key West, Fla., say they've seen the pale form of the dead author moving about the second story of his former home and heard the clack of his typewriter in the dark hours of the night.

"Hemingway's spirit has been seen so many times now that there's little doubt it haunts the house," said Key Wester Charles Fenwhether, 31.

"He often seems to be downright jolly, waving and smiling from his window.

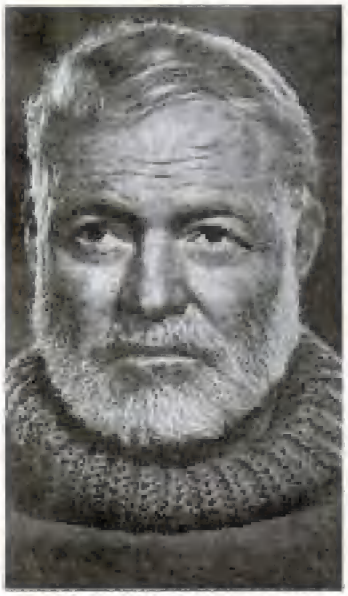
"But once or twice he's been seen in the yard, carrying one of his rifles and looking very gloomy."

Hemingway, who killed himself with a shotgun blast in 1961, lived all over the world during his lifetime. But his favorite address was 902 Whitehead Street in Key West. There he spent some of his happiest years — from 1928 to 1940 — entertaining celebrity friends, organizing fabulous fishing trips and writing several of his best-known novels.

After the great author committed suicide in Ketchum, Idaho, he was buried there.

But, apparently, his spirit was not laid to rest with his body. The ghost returned to haunt his old Key West home almost at once, locals say, and has been sighted once or twice a week ever since.

"They say that of all places he lived, Key West was where he was happiest," says Fenwhether, a painter who lives not far from the Hemingway Home.



AUTHOR Ernest Hemingway won the Nobel Prize in 1954.

A MOTHER'S REVENGE: Angelina the St. Bernard saw her owner kill her litter of pups.

By MICKEY McGUIRE
Correspondent

A lovable St. Bernard pooch named Angelina got deadly revenge on the brutish master who had abused her and brutally killed her newborn puppies — she dragged him INTO his blazing home!

— because he murdered her newborn puppies!

Angelina paid for her act of vengeance with her own life, and she never made a whimper. But the agonized screams of her cruel master could be heard above the roar of the flames as he was slowly, painfully, roasted alive!

Firefighters in Palermo, Italy, found Salvatore Biagio's charred corpse in the rubble that had collapsed into the basement where Angelina apparently had dragged him.

"Salvatore was a wicked man and he got just what he deserved," declared his lifelong neighbor Enzo Randazzio. "That poor animal suffered from his vicious treatment ever since she was a puppy.

"Sometimes he would beat her unconscious.

"But Angelina always stayed at his side. I don't know why, but I believe she truly loved Salvatore. He was all she had. But his last act of cruelty must have been too much even for her to forgive.

"Salvatore was a bachelor and a very successful tailor. But he was an evil man.

"When Angelina had her puppies, Salvatore beat her terribly. I watched in horror as he took each puppy as it was born and ripped its head off. Then he let it lay where Angelina could see it.

"Watching that poor dog try to clean up those dead puppies made me so mad I wanted to kill him myself. But I'm an old man. There was nothing I could do. Early the next morning, I saw smoke pouring from Salvatore's house.

"My wife and I ran out of our house in time to see him come stumbling out of the flames and collapse in the yard. Then something unbelievable happened.

"Angelina grabbed Salvatore's arm in her mouth and dragged him back into the house! In seconds, we could hear Salvatore screaming in agony as he burned to death.

"My wife Antonia, always a gentle woman, looked at me and smiled. She knew what Angelina had done . . . she had avenged the death of her babies.

"But Salvatore was the only master the dog had ever known and she couldn't put aside her loyalty.

"Her lifeless body was found lying beside Salvatore's, one big paw draped over his body. Angelina had

SPACE ALIENS

ARIANA MESSINA was abducted and molested by extraterrestrial beings.

'It was humiliating, they kept tearing at my underwear with their slimy little hands'

— ARIANA MESSINA

By LISA MERAKIS / Correspondent

Space aliens are kidnapping our women and forcing them to have sex — because they want to produce a hybrid being!

That's the shocking contention of UFO expert Dr. Andrew Messelmann, a noted Swiss scientist who has interviewed more than 100 UFO abductees.

The Geneva physicist, who is the author of the book UFO Nightmare, says that an amazing 38 out of 47 women he interviewed reported having sex while aboard the alien spaceship that snatched them, and 42 of 63 male abductees described similar experiences.

"It was humiliating," one abductee — Ariana Messina of Naples, Italy — told Messelmann in a 1992 interview.

"They kept tearing at my underwear with slimy little hands.

"They had me paralyzed on a table and I could do nothing to protect myself. I've tried to forget it, but I keep having nightmares. I was forced into sex by space aliens, I know I was."

UFO expert: Dr. Andrew Messelmann

The terrifying attacks have been occurring with increasing frequency, Dr. Messelmann says, and appear to represent an attempt by the aliens to interbreed with humans.

"There's an aggressive campaign among aliens to have sex with earthlings," said Dr. Messelmann. "And it should be a matter of grave concern to us what the purpose of this behavior is.

"So far, none of the Earth women have become pregnant from their sexual contacts, but we simply don't know what has happened to the males. For all we know, right now there may be dozens of half-human, half-space alien babies living on another planet that have been created by the interspecies sex."

Dr. Messelmann's mind-boggling charges are the result of 15 years of extensive interviews with UFO abductees from all over the world. The scientist says he contacted people who had reported being whisked aboard spaceships and examined by aliens, tape recording accounts of their experiences.

Over and over again, the abduction victims described being molested or seduced by aliens. The sexual encounters were recalled as brief, cold and clinical.

"The accounts surprised me because before 1977 we never heard of any sexual encounters during abductions," Dr. Messelmann said. "After that year sex becomes the rule, not the exception.

"Several kidnapping victims engaged in conversations with the aliens in which they were told the purpose of these rapes: The aliens want to create a new species. They want to conduct tests on half-breed children of humans and space aliens, possibly to find out if they would be useful as slaves or drones. It's a sinister plan from the human point of view. The helpless offspring of these assaults may well be facing a nightmare future."

Dr. Messelmann says he is carefully interviewing recent abductees to find out if any have spotted half-human, half-

"I am convinced the Devil is in a power struggle with God for the souls of these pathetic victims," said Father Maneenoi. "And he will claim more souls for his kingdom of hell unless we stop him."

The elderly priest is convinced he can exorcise the building and drive the evil spirits away.

"The tomb of a brutal warlord was disturbed when the building was built, cursed it ever since. There has been no explanation for any of these suicides," said the priest.

"Police have been stationed throughout the building that they call Suicide Skyscraper, but the forces of evil still find a

Mannequin with toy gun makes police look like fools!

STUPID COPS SURROUND STORE DUMMY — FOR 48 HOURS!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

RIO ORSO, Argentina — A gun-toting tough on a 10th-floor balcony held cops at bay for 48 harrowing hours — before the pea-brained police discovered their desperado was a department store mannequin!

And once they'd corralled the dastardly dummy, ding-a-ling lawmen learned the pistol that had kept them trembling in their boots all that time was actually a 29-cent squirt gun.

"This is an outrage. It took 100 policemen two whole days to arrest a damn mannequin with a water pistol — and that's just ridiculous," sniffed ticked-off city commissioner Carlos Solis.

"It's hard to feel safe in a city where the police don't know the difference between a terrorist and a dummy with a plastic butt and sawdust brains."

The case of the pistol-packing mannequin began one morning when fashion buyer Felicia Leandros dumped the dummy on the balcony of her cluttered apartment — never dreaming it would draw the attention of a hundred bumbling lawmen.

"I keep mannequins around the house so I can check out clothes at home, and that morning I kept tripping all over them," flabbergasted Felicia recalled.

"So I set one of them out on the balcony just to get it out of the way. Then I saw my little girl's water gun teetering on the edge of the balcony, so I picked it up and put it in the mannequin's hand without even really thinking about it, I guess.

"A few minutes later, I took my daughter to the babysitter and left for Buenos Aires on a buying trip."

And less than an hour after Felicia flew away, a panicky caller reported to police that a guy with a gun was threatening passersby from an apartment house balcony.

"Someone called and said there was a man up there shooting down at people — and at the time we had no way of knowing that wasn't true," said embarrassed police inspector Eduardo Ibanez.

So officers rushed to the scene and when they looked up on the balcony, they saw what they thought was a man with a gun.

"The officers evacuated the area and blocked off traffic, then got on the loudspeakers and started trying to negotiate with the gunman," Ibanez said.

Then they settled in for a siege, trying to talk the squirt gun-toting mannequin into giving up for 48 nerve-racking hours — till two kids came by and informed them they were dealing with a dummy.

"The cops would still be out there stumbling around if those boys who lived in the building hadn't clued them in that it was just a mannequin," said steamed city commissioner Santos Pinero.

"Now we're afraid every damn criminal in the country will be heading for Rio Orso — once word gets out that it took our idiot police two whole

SMILE — and make your life better!

Flashing a winning smile can be the difference between a harsh or light jail sentence, a job or a rejection or a ticket or a warning from a traffic cop.

Scientists' shocking warning:

BUGS THAT LOOK LIKE HUMANS

EVIL bugs called sapoids could soon become a major national problem.

...are spreading across the U.S.!

By KEVIN CREED / Correspondent

Concerned scientists are trying to control a newly discovered species of intelligent mean-spirited bugs — that look, think and behave like evil human beings!

The creatures, called "sapoids," are turning up by the thousands in homes throughout the southern United States and may soon become a major national problem.

They breed faster than cockroaches — and can chew through a car key!

"They're less than half an inch long and have many attributes of insects, like a hard outer skeleton and a big appetite," says Dr. Deborah Morskot, noted entomologist from Raleigh, N.C.

"But unlike insects, which have six legs, sapoids have two legs and two front appendages that can only be described as 'arms.' We've had reports from the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida by people who say the sapoids have made their lives hell."

Some experts believe the bugs demonstrate a pattern of behavior resembling that of human criminals.

Witnesses say they steal entire cans of food, suits of clothes, even car keys.

"They will eat tremendous amounts of food," says Dr. Morskot. "They work as a team and pry cabinets and refrigerator doors open. Their incredibly sharp teeth can even chew through metal keys."

The amazing bugs also demonstrate a cruel but definite "sense of humor" by playing crude practical jokes like propping up needles or slivers of glass, point first, for unwary homeowners to step on.

Dr. Morskot and her staff have investigated dozens of reports, using observation cameras to record sapoid activities over several days.

"They're amazing," says Dr. Morskot. "They tend to live in large communities in the fibers of shag carpets. Our cameras have observed them actually climbing up on a table, picking the rug causing the owners hours of frustration looking for the keys.

"In one home the creatures even chewed through the wooden leg of a kitchen chair, causing it to collapse when a man sat in it the next day."

Dr. Deborah Morskot

The 35-year-old insect expert says the sapoids tend to be quiet during the day.

But at night, after the homeowners are in bed, the bugs keep them awake by making strange loud noises that sound very much like the creaking of furniture or the yowling of cats.

Dr. Morskot and her staff are currently working on a bug repellent that will control their spread.

"It's important that we stop their spread but it's not going to be easy," says Dr. Morskot. "They multiply even

How to tell if your home is infested!

Dr. Morskot and her staff have devised this simple test to see if you may have sapoids in your home.

Answer these simple Yes/No questions.

1) Do you hear strange sounds at night, when the house is still, that you don't hear during the daytime?

2) Do you frequently "lose" small things like keys, pens and important documents?

3) Does food sometimes disappear from your pantry, cabinets or refrigerator?

4) Do you often find things on the floor that were left on the table, counter or dresser?

5) Do you sometimes sense a hostile presence in your home?

6) Does your shag carpet have a strange smell after it's been shampooed?

7) When you're at home, do you sometimes notice movement from the corner of your eye — then look quickly and not see anything there?

8) Do you live in a southern state or a state in which temperatures sometimes exceed 90 degrees Fahrenheit?

9) Have you, more than three times in the last month, stepped on something in your bare feet that you don't remember dropping?

MIRACLE IN ILLINOIS MATERNITY

UNBORN BABY SINGS IN MOM'S WOMB!

NURSE'S AIDE Agnes Couperin was shocked when she heard the incredible singing coming from the woman's womb.

'It sounded beautiful, just like Pavarotti,' says nurse!

Nurses and orderlies in a maternity ward were almost knocked off their feet when they heard an unborn baby singing loudly and clearly — in his mother's womb!

Incredibly, the fetus was singing operatic arias "in a voice as sweet as Luciano Pavarotti's," declared one amazed nurse.

"I would never have believed it if I hadn't heard it with my own ears," added Agnes Couperin, a nurse's aide in the private hospital northwest of Chicago.

By MICKY McGUIRE
Correspondent

"I had just prepared the patient for an acoustic procedure that enables mothers-to-be to hear the heartbeat and the other little gurgles their unborn babies make in the womb.

"As soon as I turned on the amplifier, the sound of singing reverberated in the examining room. At first, I thought someone had turned on a radio. But the amplifier clearly showed that the singing had to be coming from the patient's tummy.

"I don't know much about opera, but that little guy could warble as good as Pavarotti, that's a fact. One of the other nurses who was there said he was singing something from The Marriage of Figaro.

"All I know is it was clear as a crystal bell and as sweet a sound as I've ever heard. It truly was beautiful."

The only ones not surprised at the incredible crooning fetus are the parents, who are identified only as Mario and Angela. They said their unborn pride and joy began singing in the womb six months after he was conceived.

"It's a miracle . . . a gift from God which we accept with humility and gratitude," said Mario, a professional musician whose parents sang in the chorus at La Scala in Milan, Italy.

"Angela and I are opera nuts. We play Pavarotti night and day at full volume. It's no wonder our unborn baby has already acquired our love for opera.

"We both cried with utter joy and happiness when, lying in bed one night, we first heard that small, sweet voice singing the Song of the Toreador from Carmen.

"In the beginning, I had to put my head to Angela's belly to hear his singing clearly. Now, with the amplifier, my son's fine voice can be heard clear across a room."

Angela explained that when not listening to Pavarotti and other great singers, she and Mario are always singing or humming their favorite arias.

"It's only natural that our little baby has followed suit," she added. "In fact, we went to a psychologist who tells us it's common for children to learn and retain words and sounds they hear while in the womb."

Sound experts have listened to the singing fetus and have confirmed that no ventriloquism, tape recordings or any kind of trickery is involved.

"The quality of the sound is extremely high," declared an acoustics expert who asked not to be identified. "But I did notice an occasional gurgle between breaths. Doctors tell me that's probably because the womb is filled with fluid. That makes the fetus sound, at times, as though it's singing underwater.

"To me, the fact that an unborn baby is singing at all is nothing short of a miracle."

Angela's "miracle" baby is expected to be born sometime around Christmas.

Woman pays dentist with check written in disappearing ink!

A cagey lady patient got her teeth cleaned and filled at a dentist's office, then paid the $112 bill with a check — written in disappearing ink!

"The check looked perfectly fine when the woman gave it to me," recalled stunned Gerda Hopfer, office manager for the ripped-off dentist in Munich, Germany. "But 10 minutes after the patient left, I looked at her check again and couldn't believe my eyes — because it was completely, totally blank."

Flabbergasted Gerda swallowed hard and rushed to inform the doc that she'd been bamboozled.

"The doctor just shook his head and said to make sure she pays in cash next time," grateful Gerda said.

Forget about striving for perfection — it just wastes your time!

"People who are obsessed with being perfect will often spend hours doing a job they could have performed just as well in a matter of minutes," says Dr. Dieter Gehring, a time management expert.

The college professor from Bonn, Germany, said mowing your lawn is a good example.

"Some people will mow their lawn in an hour, while others spend five hours giving the lawn a perfect manicure.

"But the fact is very few people could tell the difference."

Dr. Gehring said his theory has been proved by his students.

"Students who spend just a few hours on projects get about the same grades as those who spend an eternity working on them."

To prove his point, Dr. Gehring conducted classroom experiments that supported his observations.

"I divided my students into five groups and assigned each group a speech to compose. The groups were allowed from 10 minutes to 1½ hours — to finish the work.

"Each speech was then rated by outside judges. I found that the group with only 10 minutes consistently rated as highly as all the other groups."

But Dr. Gehring didn't suggest someone should rush through a job.

"People should work to the best of their abilities and trust their instincts to tell them when to stop. But they should never waste time striving for perfection."

NIGHTMARES CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE!

TERRIFIED actress Ashley Laurence from the horror flick, Hellraiser, comes face to face with nightmare terror.

Nightmares can actually warn you of impending disaster, experts agree!

By MICHAEL ANDREWS

History is full of cases where people had eerie, foreboding dreams — which later turned into chilling reality.

For instance Abraham Lincoln once dreamed he saw "people sobbing and walking through the White House," declared Dr. Robert Van de Castle, an expert on dreams and sleep.

"He asked a soldier standing by a coffin what was wrong. The soldier replied that the President had been assassinated."

In the early days of Nazi Germany, "many Jews were having nightmares that there were no more walls and everybody could see what they were doing," continued Dr. Van de Castle. "Some Jews had dreams of yellow benches on which they were supposed to sit with signs hanging over them saying, 'I make room for garbage.'

"They were foreseeing the experiences that would be around the corner for them and the role they would be playing as scapegoats.

"There were also many nightmares preceding a disaster in Wales some years ago where a mountain of coal slag collapsed onto a school and killed 122 children.

A London newspaper found 336 cases in which people had foreseen the disaster in dreams."

There are two types of bad dreams — nightmares, where you can usually remember some of the details, and the frightening night terrors where you generally can't.

"The nightmare usually happens in the later part of the night and almost always wakes you before the actual moment of terror," explained another expert, Dr. Mike Bonnet.

For instance, you may dream you've fallen off a cliff. You'll wake up before you hit the rocks below, because it is too difficult for your mind to imagine what it's like to be crushed by falling onto rocks.

"Night terrors occur during the first part of the night. The person usually sits up in bed and lets out a bloodcurdling scream.

"The heart rate will go from about 60 beats a minute to 180. Most night terror sufferers are children," said Dr. Bonnet.

But adults can have them too, especially after a period of high anxiety or some traumatic event. They often strike combat veterans.

Night terrors begin as early as age 2, generally tapering off by age 30. The great majority of adults report having had at least one nightmare, with "8 percent reporting one episode a week," revealed Dr. Milton Kramer.

Men get nightmares and night terrors more often than women do, according to Dr. Kramer. The most common theme by far is the fear of dying, falling, being chased and entrapment.

How can you avoid bad dreams? "Try to avoid overstimulation, such as reading detective or mystery novels before going to sleep," advised Dr. Van de Castle.

"Eat a balanced diet and make sure you don't get heavy sugar input within half an hour of going to sleep.

"There has been some evidence that foods with a lot of sugar will increase your bad dreams.

"You can also put on some soothing music. Before falling off to sleep, think of pleasant scenes, like a beach or a meadow up in the mountains — anywhere you would feel secure

Amazing creature eats, sleeps & gives birth upside down!

The sloth is an animal so lazy and slow-moving that its name has become another word for sluggishness.

WORLD'S slowest mammal : The sloth.

It is the slowest mammal in the world, moving no more than six to eight feet a minute — when it's not enjoying a 15- to 18-hour nap in its cozy treetop home. This seemingly dull creature is the only animal that can turn its head 180 degrees.

It spends most of its life hanging upside down from tree branches — and eats, sleeps, mates and gives birth in that position. About 7½ feet long and roughly the sloth is found mainly in the tropical forests of South and Central America. The creature's main occupation is sleeping and it loves nothing better than to curl up and snooze the day away.

Its practice of hanging upside down also makes it difficult for other animals to attack. The sloth has one of the lowest body temperatures of any mammal — as

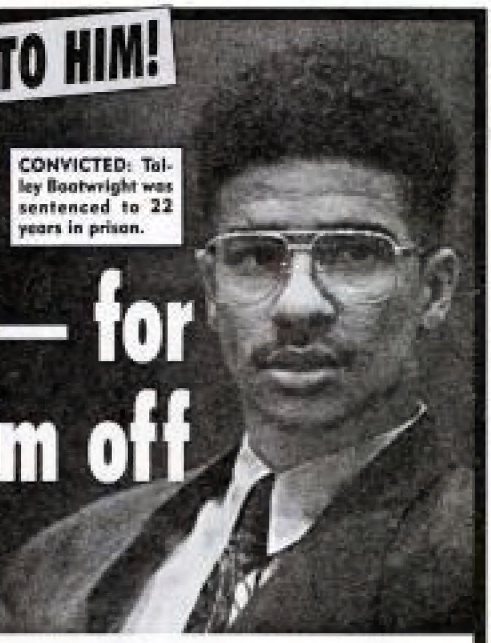
JUDGE SOCKS IT TO HIM!

Man kills motorist — for cutting him off in traffic!



CONVICTED: Talley Boatwright was sentenced to 22 years in prison.

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

Cold-blooded Talley Boatwright blew a perfect stranger's head off because the poor guy cut him off in traffic!

But a tough Florida judge gave the gunman his due by slapping him with 22-year prison sentence — the maximum for manslaughter.

"I guess you have to suffer the consequences for what you do," said Boatwright, 20, as he was led away in handcuffs after his sentencing in Jacksonville.

"Let this be a lesson to all those teenagers out there who want to be gangsters."

Boatwright was wheeling his pickup along I-95 last April when a car whizzed by and cut in front of him.

Witnesses told cops Boatwright pursued the car for more than two miles before he fired his pistol and struck the driver, Patrick Lee, 40, in the back of the head. Boatwright was convicted of manslaughter with a firearm.

He was given the maximum sentence by Judge David Wiggins, who said he could find no justification for the shooting.

NO JUSTIFICATION: Patrick Lee, who was shot in the head, left behind his widow Kathi.

Boatwright could be eligible for parole in five years.

EAT YOUR HEART OUT,

CANNIBAL KILLER LANDS NEW JOB — AS A FOOD

Bizarre twist for man who chopped up his girlfriend & cooked her in Crockpot!

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Cannibal killer Issei Sagawa slaughtered a pretty Dutch student and feasted on her corpse — and now he's going to get rich off his crime by becoming a food critic for a Japanese magazine!

Sagawa, who served a mere four years in mental institutions after the 1981 murder of Renee Hartvelt, 25, already stands to earn big bucks from a book he wrote about his crime.

And he's planning on adding to his riches by appearing on a television show that he hopes will boost the spectacular projected $1 million he'll be making off his book.

And most shocking of all — he's now getting paid for being Spa magazine's restaurant critic!

"It's revolting to think that this madman is profiting from his hideous acts," said Pieter van Ruiter, a Dutch journalist who has written extensively about Sagawa's stomach-turning crime. "He cold-bloodedly shot Renee because she refused his advances, then cut up her corpse and ate it. Now he has a book out in which he describes the murder in detail and gore-hungry readers are snapping it up.

"He's on television in England and Japan bragging about his deeds. He's getting paid to make a joke of his despicable acts by being a food critic for a big magazine. And his bank account is getting fatter with every exposure."

Sagawa's debut appearance in the public eye came after the killing of attractive Renee, a Dutch woman who studied at the same Paris university he attended.

VICTIM RENEE HARTVELT

he had invited the woman to his apartment, demanded sex and when she refused, shot her in the neck with a rifle.

Then he cooked and ate her — a perverse act he describes with relish in his mind-boggling best-seller.

"I touched her hip and wondered where I should eat first," he says in the book, called Excuse Me For Living. "I took a meat knife and when CRITIC!

FRIENDISH Issei Sagawa has been featured in several European newspapers, including this one that showed the madman wearing a bizarre cannibal's mask.

I could see a red color, it looked like beef, red meat.

"A little came out and I put it into my mouth. It had no smell or taste. It melted in my mouth like raw tuna in a sushi restaurant. Finally I was devouring a beautiful woman and thought nothing was so delicious."

Sagawa ate parts of his lady friend raw, then cooked the other parts in a Crockpot.

A few days after the murder, he was caught dumping the rest of her body in bloody suitcases near a pond.

He confessed to his crime, but was declared mentally ill and sent to a Paris mental hospital.

Three years later he was transferred to another asylum in Japan, where he was released after just one year of care.

Since then the cannibal publications revealing that he loves to wear Hannibal the Cannibal-style masks and that he has starred in films about cannibalism. Far from being an outcast, he became a hero of sorts.

Incredibly, Sagawa claims his madness is over now and that he never again will resort to murder and cannibalism because he now knows what it's like!

"The curiosity of what human flesh would taste like — the flesh of a beautiful woman — was so strong," he says. "However much I thought about it or tried to imagine it, I could never have known it without doing it.

"I was quite a dangerous person before I committed the crime but once I'd done it, exposed my fantasy to the outside world and shut it off, I became empty. Once I had acted out my fantasy, that was the end of it."

Cat causes fire truck crack-up!

Two fire trucks were destroyed by wild-driving firemen — who were racing to save a cat caught in a tree!

Police reports in Genora, Spain, revealed the firemen were racing against each other when the wreck occurred.

"We had never been called to get a cat from a tree and we were all eager to do it," one fireman was quoted as saying. "I guess we both just got a little out of control."

No one was injured in the wreck and the cat was later rescued by a neighbor with a ladder.

- A total of 618,000 Americans will be fired because of remarks they made to their boss at the party.
- At least 288,000 marriages will be damaged beyond repair because of something that happened at a party. About half of those will end in divorce within a year.
- There will be at least 1.2 million unexpected pregnancies as a result of the heavy party drinking.
